He Remembered His Promise.

A twelve year old boy was invited on a camping trip, says an exchange. His timid mother gave permission on the condition that he would not get into a canoe while away, as she was afraid of it upsetting.

The boy promised, though reluctantly and at the end of ten days came the following letter:

Dear Mother.—I'm having the best kind of a time and I don't mind a bit about the canoe. Yesterday was the only day I really wanted to try one, for we were going across a little lake to another camp. But they've been teaching me how to swim and Ned said he and I could swim across and let the other four take the canoes, and so the other four took the canoes, and so we did and swam back again too. Wasn't that great? Then I knew you'd be pleased to think I remembered my promise. Your affectionate son, George.

Down With the Pessimists.

The Messenger has a kick coming—or rather going. The usual serenity of his amiable disposition is disturbed by the blatant sons of Ananias, who are going about pretending poverty and business stagnation, when there isn't the slightest excuse for their pessimisms. Whether they do it editorially with the pen, or use the same weapon with which Samson slew the lion, they are equally culpable and deserve the condemnation and ridicule of an outraged public. They hurt trade. They are mosquitos of commerce and, like those pesky insects, they not only annoy by their buzzing and stinging, but inoculate their victims with dangerous microbes—the germs of apprehension, timidity and lack of enterprise.

The Messenger confesses that the very rich, in consequence of labor troubles, are a little more unwealthy than usual. Reports of sad cases of destitution reach us from Newport and other centers of Fashion infested by the four hundred. Ladies have actually been driven to wear the same Paris gown twice in the same season, and Mr. Billion Muttonhead has been advised to delay the introduction of his brilliant idea of putting on another new dress suit between the game and the piece de resistance at a dinner party; but even these distressing cases are happily rare.

Of course, The Messenger's heart, which is peculiarly tender, bleeds for them; but when he gazes at this big, prosperous land with its seventy millions of people basking in affluence, as compared with other nations, it would take a surgical operation to start the tears of sympathy to his eyes.

Down with the pessimists and down with them good and hard, says he, and he means it.—Garry Messenger.

What a Platform is For.

The use that the Democrats of Cameron county, including the party organ, try to make of their various platforms brings to mind a story told by Congressman Allen, of Mississippi, about a conductor who remonstrated with a passenger for standing on the platform of a car when the train was running fifty miles an hour. The passenger thought he had some rights in the matter, and indignantly asked what in Halifax a platform is for anyway. "A platform," replied the conductor, "is not made to stand on; it is made to get in on."

After Twenty Years.

The story is told of an old bachelor who bought a pair of sox and found attached to one a paper with these words: "I am a young lady of twenty and would like to correspond with a bachelor with a view of matrimony." The name and address were given. The bachelor wrote and in a few days got this reply: "Mamma was married twenty years ago. Evidently the merchant who you bought those sox of did not advertise or he whold have sold them long ago. My mother handed me the letter and said possibly I may suit. I am eighteen.

Campaign Trick No. 1.

To the Editor Cameron County Press:

MR. EDITOR. A few years ago the candidate for member of assembly on the Republican ticket this year was opposing the nominees of the Republican party and sending around dodgers and cartoons of the candidate and his supporters. As a Republican I would like to know if the Republicans of this county are supposed to support the present nominee for Member of Assembly and on what grounds. Does the nominee expect the voters and workers for the party in the past to support him in his candidacy now? Trusting you will favor this communication with a reply through your columns, I am

A REPUBLICAN.

The PRESS received through the mail, last evening the above, signed by A Republican (?). It has never been the custom of legitimate journalism to publish anonymous communications, but we shall deviate from the rule in this case, knowing full well the object of the writer. In answer to the question as to whether Republicans are expected to vote a straight ticket this fall, we answer promptly YES! Even if some one of the candidates did not always vote a strictly straight ticket. We know of no reason, except spite, why a true Republican should not only be willing, but anxious, to see our entire ticket elected by a large majority. If the offended Republican (?) has any personal grievances with Mr. Howard he must go to him with them. He will be met and received in a gentlemanly and sincere manner.

We have printed this communication without knowing the name of the writer, but hereafter no letters will be published unless the same be accompanied with the full name of writer.

The opposition to Mr. Howard must be in severe straights to adopt such tactics. But then they have heard from Vermont and Maine.

Senor Ramon Reyes Lala, Filipino Author, Lecturer and Publicist, endorsed by President Roosevelt, Admiral Dewey and others. His lecture will be superbly illustrated by 130 colored views and will be of special interest. The price of the Course tickets will be kept at $1.25 each and this with the excellence of the attractions should insure the largest patronage.

Attends National Convention.

Cashier T. B. Lloyd of First National Bank left Monday evening for New York City to attend the Bankers National Convention. The convention will comprise about 3,000 delegates and will be in session Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. While the trip will be pleasant in a social way, no doubt Mr. Lloyd will grasp many valuable points of interest to the stockholders of the First National. He will remember what he sees and hears.

The County Sunday School Convention.

Though the hard rain storm last Thursday evening interfered with the attendance at the first session of the convention, the interest was good throughout all the sessions and there was a gratifying number present on Friday evening. Messrs. Cork and Landes, of the state organization, led the conferences, in which many points of practical value were brought out. Prof. E. S. Ling, was elected President for the ensuing year in place of Mrs. Mary Hall, of Driftwood, who is no longer a resident in the county. The Rev. G. W. Faus, Sinnamahoning, Vice President; Mrs. John E Smith, Sterling Run, Secretary and Treasurer and Mrs. G. L. Smith, Driftwood, Recording Secretary, were re elected.

Mrs. John E. Smith presented a carefully prepared report, showing the statistics of the Sunday Schools in Cameron county. Those reported number seventeen and are the following:

Emporium — Protestant Episcopal; Methodist Episcopal; Free Methodist; Baptist; Presbyterian.

Sinnamahoning—Methodist Episcopal.

Driftwood—Union.

Beechwood—Methodist Episcopal.

Mason Hill—Union.

Howard Siding—Methodist Episcopal.

More Hill—Methodist Episcopal.

Sterling—Methodist Episcopal; Messiah.

Castle Garden—Union.

West Creek—Methodist Episcopal.

Cameron—Union.

Rich Valley—Union.

The total reported membership of these schools is 1,517, an increase of 92 over the enrollment reported for 1903.

If there are other Sunday Schools in the county besides those reported above, the officers of them are requested to report to Mrs. John E. Smith, Sterling Run.

Messrs Hugh Cork and G. W. Landes were particularly helpful in their addresses, and if the suggestions offered, the plans and methods outlined are adopted, their profiting will appear to all. Visiting and local clergy participated in the discussions. The singing was hearty and the occasion throughout very happy.

BRIEF MENTION.

A fine display of gents' furnishings at N. Seger's.

In regard to questions of personal identity, one should be sure that he is right before he goes ahead.

Evidently Vermont whispered effectually to the Maine voters, who "winked the other eye" and got there Eli.

Clothing bought at N. Seger's gives perfect satisfaction. Call and give him a trial and you will not be disappointed.

A big eleven pound boy arrived at Ruben Fountain's home Tuesday night. Reuben welcomes the son but hopes his taxes will not be increased.

Call and see N. Seger on East Allegany when in need of clothing. He can save you money. Don't forget the place.

Emmanuel Church Chapel is being remodeled and improved for the use of Sunday School and social societies connected with the church.

Don't fail to get next Sunday's Philadelphia Press. It will contain the most remarkable interview had, just at the the outbreak of the war between the Czar of Russia and M. E. Stone, General Manager of the Assa. Press. For sale by Harry Lloyd.

WANTED—A good reliable man, with horse and rig preferred, for Emporium and surrounding towns to distribute circulars, samples, and tack signs, either in connection with present work, or give entire time. No money required. A good opportunity for a hustler. Address, Atoz Printing Co., Dept., 6, South Whitley, Indiana.

As used by us last week, the word "fatuous" means "controlled by ill-advised impulse." We do not stand for the definitions quoted by the Independent. There is, moreover, a difference between calling a newspaper fatuous and saying that it sometimes does fatuous things.

What's in a Name?

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases, DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

Oyster Supper.

There will be an oyster supper in the basement of the new Presbyterian Church this evening. Supper from five o'clock until all are served.

Eightieth Anniversary.

Our venerable friend, Capt. Samuel Shadman, celebrated his 80th birthday last Sunday. Mr. Shadman is a hero of two wars, having served in the Mexican war as well as the Rebellion. He is wonderfully preserved for one of his years and apparently in good health. May he live to clebrate many more anniversaries.

Shaffer for Congress.

Charles W. Shaffer, of Emporium, a member of the well-known law firm of Green & Shaffer, was unanimously nominated for Congress at Clearfield, last week, Tuesday. The district is composed of Centre, Clearfield, Cameron and McKean, a strong Republican district. In conversation with a PRESS cribe, Mr. Shaffer expresses the hope that he may receive a good vote at home, where he has resided so many years.

Drunken Brawls.

The disgraceful drunken row on Broad and Fourth streets last Monday evening has greatly enraged our citizens. The demands are loud for a prompt intervention of the authorities and the guilty parties brought to an accounting. Open defiance of law has gone too far in this town, when peaceable citizens are assaulted upon our streets. All good citizens should emphatically place their seal of condemnation upon such tactics and lend the authorities all necessary assistance. The open and defiant violation of the license laws will result in an uprising of the people.

Early Winter Styles.

Misses Blanche and Lizzie Ludlam went to Philadelphia, Atlantic City and New York City last Monday. They will spend some time in Philadelphia and New York City, selecting their winter line of goods for their new store on Broad street.

Emmanuel Church Notes.

The Sunday school, which has been suspended for several Sundays on account of the work in the old church building, will resume its work next Sunday at the usual hour, 12 o'clock.

If possible the Sunday school will meet on Sunday in the old church. If not, other arrangements will be made for the meeting at the same hour.

The week day services will be resumed this week, Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock. Choir rehearsed at 8 o'clock.

The monthly Missionary offering next Sunday will be for Diocesan Missions.

A Hummer.

President Roosevelt's letter of acceptance is a "hummer" and fully comes up to the expectation of the people. It is written in no unmistaken language and forciably as well as rightly handles every question.

Letter to John L. Johnson.

Emporium, Pa.

Dear Sir: Pay more for Devoe; be glad to. It is full measure and honest.

Paint is a watch-dog. How would you like a watch-dog that wouldn't watch from two to five o'clock in the morning? That's short-measure.

How would you like a watch-dog that had a way of wagging his tail at a burglar? That's false paint. The burglar is rain and snow.

Go by the name; Devoe lead-and-zinc.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & Co.

A Power For Good.

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Philpot, of Albany, Ga., says: "During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it was it did me more good than calomel, blue mass or any other pill I ever took and at the same time the effect was pleasant. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by R. C. Dodson.

"MAINE WENT — BENT FOR GOV. KENT"

Returns Indicate 7,000 in Excess of Most Sanguine Expectations —Heavy Vote.

PORTLAND, ME., Sept. 13—The Republicans carried the state in the biennial election yesterday, returns up to 11 o'clock last night indicating a plurality of about 33,000 for William Cobb, the Republican candidate for governor, compared with 33,384 for Hill, the party candidate four years ago.

In the First and Second congressional districts the returns indicate the election of Amos. L. Allen and Charles E. Littlefield by about the same plurality as four years ago. In the Third district E. C. Burleigh ran ahead of his vote of four years ago.

At late hour last night very few reports have been received from the Fourth district, where the re-election of Llewellyn Powers is conceded.

Early returns show that the Democrats have probably made slight gains in both branches of the legislature, but that the body will remain strongly Republican and will probably re-elect United States Senator Hale. The vote was the heaviest cast since 1888. As in Vermont last week, the only difference of opinion regarding the outcome is the size of the plurality for governor. The Republicans claim from 15,000 to 25,000 for Cobb, while the Democrats declare that one vote less than 33,384, the plurality of 1900, will be a victory for them.

The campaign has been brief, brisk and broad. It did not begin until the last of August. Both parties had the benefit of national talent while rallies were held in every county, all the cities and a large number of the towns.

THE EARLY RETURNS.

Returns from 25 cities and towns, including the cities of Biddeford, Saco and Auburn for governor, give Cobb, Republican, 7,360; Davis, Democrat, 4,551.

The same place in 1900 gave Hill, Republicans, 7,199; Lord, Democrat, 4,170. This shows a neat Democratic gain of 390.

Returns from 100 cities and towns give Cobb, Republican, 24,034; Davis Democrat, 14,987.

In 1900 these places gave Hill, Republican, 22,445 and Lord, Democrat, 12,020. The returns so far show a Democratic gain of 1,378 and on the basis of the present returns Cobb's plurality is estimated at about 29,000.

Of Interest in the Home.

The wedding breakfast or luncheon is an occasion to be long remembered, and therefore should present a most attractive picture. The details of planning the wedding feast are given in an illustrated article in the October Delineator which is very suggestive in this regard. In the same number are illustrated and described various seasonable fruit confections, and there are also many choice recipes, including Dainty Novelties in Soup, Delectable Cheese Dishes, a Dozen Little Cakes and a number of preparations from a Southern kitchen. A series of notes on domestic science rounds out the household portion of the magazine.

Passing of the Old Church.

The Presbyterian people will bid farewell to their old church building, next Sabbath morning and evening, by appropriate services. All members of the church and congregation are especially desired to be present, and the public are cordially welcome.

In Wurtemberg, under the law of March 22, 1895, those who have completed the common schools must attend either a general or an industrial continuation school for the period of two years, unless they wish to attend some higher school or receive adequate private instruction. The work in these schools must cover at least two hours a week throughout the year, or four hours a week during the winter.

The minister of commerce has received an official report of the last census of France, begun in 1901. It shows the population to be 38,961,945, or a gain of only 444,613 in ten years. Comparative tables disclose that there is no other European country in which the population increases so slowly. The percentage of increases in Germany, Great Britain and Russia is almost a third greater than in France for the same period.

Critics of the modern "sky-scrapers," with their frowning steel frames, have predicted that these lofty buildings will be short-lived, and that they are all destined to crumble away. The steel skeletons of these structures are mostly hidden from observation, and no one can tell whether they are intact or rusting away, but experts conclude, from examination of the frame of one that has recently been demolished in New York, that such fears as those mentioned are groundless. In this building, which had stood four years, the only rust in the frame was that acquired during construction.

A fan that gives out, instead of a cooling breeze, a blast of hot air, has been invented by M. de Mare, a Belgian. The blades are of mica, on which the arranged resistance coils that are electrically heated to a high temperature. M. de Mare finds that compressed air absorbs the heat from the coils with great rapidity, and he accordingly incloses his fans in a casing with an opening through which the hot blast issues. He is thus enabled to pass through the coils a current which, when the fan is at rest, would melt the tin wire, but which, when it is in motion, does not even make it red-hot.

According to estimates of an eminent civil engineer, the water running from the present land surface of the globe to sea level would produce, if all utilized, 10,340 million horse power, day and night. On the other hand, the present output of coal for a whole years (225,000,000 tons) if so burned as to produce this horse power, could keep it up for only half a day. In other words, the world's water power is over 700 times its present available coal power, and can not be used up as the latter can,—a fact which may comfort those who are anticipating with fear the time when our coal supply will have been exhausted.

Farmers throughout the United States, especially in regions traversed by swift-flowing streams, are beginning to realize that close to their doors is an opportunity to apply electricity to the work on the farm. The old dams along neglected waterways which years ago supplied the small mills with power, are now being rebuilt, and the old mill-races have been dredged and cleared of rubbish. Each dam and race may yield several horsepower; and the generating plants, poles, wires, etc., are simple and inexpensive.

The longest and largest cableway is to be constructed on the Argentine side of the Andes mountains by the engineering firm of Adolf Bleichert & Co., of Leipsic, Germany. This cableway is to extend from the Chilecito station of the Argentine Northern Railroad for a total distance of 32 miles. Its termination at this end will be 14,933 feet above sea level, and the engine station that will be erected at this point of the cableway will be the highest in the world. No less than 87 miles of rope will be required for the cableway.

Scouting with the aid of the telephone is a feature of warfare used by the Japs. Two scouts start from the lines toward the enemy, one, the observer, is a skilled army officer who makes the observations, which are transmitted back to headquarters through a telephone line paid out from a reel carried by an electrician of the signal corps. A ground return is used, the ground being made by thrusting a bayonet or hatchet into the earth and attaching one end of the line of it. The electrician carries a battery on his back.

THE DEMOCRATIC LORELEI OF 1904.

FREE TRADE IN ENGLAND.

It Has Brought Distress and Degradation to Millions of Men Willing to Work.

All students f economical systems and every man of affairs should consider and reflect upon the terrible condition of the English working classes, as shown in the recent investigations of Mr. Charles Booth, and published by the Macmillans. The revelations of Mr. Booth show a condition of poverty and wretchedness almost incredible, and yet no one questions Mr. Booth's figures or doubts that his pictures are true in every particular. Almost one-third of the population of London, or, to be exact, 1,292,737 peo ple, are living in abject poverty. Think of it, disciples of Cobden! 11,279 families, comprising four persons, living in a single room. Think of that, free traders! 99,151 families, consisting of two or three persons, living in two rooms. Think of that, American grumblers!

Two-thirds of the total population f the British capital dwell in "homes" ot exceeding four rooms.

Think of that, American pessimists! And in these "homes" of one, two and four rooms, was found dirt and filth and degradation most appalling in character. No wonder the women are driven to the street and brothel and the men to dives of every sort. Immorality is rampant on every hand, and the marriage relations are ignored by thousands. What a school for the youth of London—a youth without parentage! What a future must be in store for such a people!

Nearly 60 years ago Richard Cobden and his associates succeeded in having England repeal most of her duties on imports, and to-day England is reaping the harvest. First her agriculture was destroyed, driving the people to the shops of London, and Liverpool, and Manchester, destroying a large market for manufactured products and cheapening wages and cheapening men. In the meantime, protected America and France and Germany and other continental countries have forged ahead, and England is no longer the workshop of the world—no, not even to the full extent of her own market. And so there is not work enough for half, and without work there can be no wages, but instead idleness and poverty and licentiousness and despair and degradation and death.

What a contrast to protected, prosous, busy, happy America, where two-fifths of the population are on the farms, getting good prices for their products, and themselves forming a market for manufactures greater than all Great Britain combined.

Picture the British hovel and the one and two-room home, without furniture or food, and then compare such to the well furnished American houses owned by thousands and tens of thousands of laborers in the United States, whose wives and children are well dressed, well fed, happy and contented.

Some Bolters We Don't Want.

A Memphis paper announces that young Jesse James has bolted Parker and will vote the republican ticket. Mr. Roosevelt may yet find it necessary to go forth with a big stick for the purpose of shooing some of the bolters back. —Chicago Record-Herald.

The Reverse.

Round Sergeant—What! Asleep again? Can it be that this is from force of habit?

Waking Patrolman—N-n-no, sir. Jest a habit o' th' force.—Baltimore American.

How He Got Even.

"I am very sorry, Mr. Elderleigh, "but I can be nothing more to you than—"

"Oh, never mind," interrupted Singleton, "it is useless to say the rest. I have two grandmothers already."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

PARKER IS WITH BRYAN.

Gold Democrats Are Beginning to See That That Esopus Telegram Was a Fake.

It was demonstrated beyond all question at the St. Louis convention that no platform could be adopted which in any way recognized the gold standard.

A plank which barely admitted that extraordinary and unforeseen production of gold had made that metal tolerable as a standard for the time being was voted down by the committee on resolutions. Such was the strength and temper of the Bryanites that nobody ventured to offer that feeble resolution or any other relating to the money question in open convention.

When the famous message from Esopus was received, says the Chicago Chronicle, it was not deemed safe to ask the convention to indorse even that Delphic deliverance. The most the convention could be brought to do was to say that in its opinion the standard question was out of the campaign.

It is just as certain that no man could have been nominated for president by that convention who was suspetced by the Bryanites of favoring the gold standard. Judge Parker was nominated because it was known that he had voted for Bryan in 1896 and 1900 and had pointed to that record when anybody wanted to know where he stood on the standard question.

When his message from Esopus was received in St. Louis the leading Bryanites were furious. Caught by the artful wording, as were Cleveland, Cockran and others of the gold contingent, they were for pitching Parker overboard incontinently until the Parker managers who were in the secret pointed out to the excited silverites that Parker had not committed himself to the gold standard at all.

It was only then that they consented to confirm the nomination. If they had not been convinced that he was a silver man playing a verbal trick to catch the votes of gold men they would have demonstrated very quickly that no gold man could be nominated and as completely as they had already demonstrated that no gold plank could be adopted.

Those gold democrats who have not yet seen this will see it distinctly before election day.

☞"We've got a sure thing of winning," shouts the sanguine Mr. Taggart, "but we can use a few voluntary contributions in celebrating the victory. Make all checks payable to yours truly." —Chicago Chronicle.

☞Judge Parker does not think it proper for a candidate for president to make speeches, and Grandpa Davis does not believe it proper for a vice presidential candidate to put up money for campaign purposes. So there you are.—Chicago Daily Sun.

☞No matter what David Bennett Hill may announce that he intends to do, no matter what he may appear to do, the public will continue to judge him by his record as one of the craftiest, most resourceful, most selfish and least to be trusted of all the political "bosses" in this country.—Chicago Post.

☞If protective tariffs are really responsible for the trusts the democratic party, headed by Parker, Wall street's candidate, and by Davis, the biggest monopolist in West Virginia, will be in a lovely position to cut these tariffs down in case of success at the polls. Won't it, though.—Mapa (Cal.) Register.

BELL ELECTED.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE'S PLURALITY IS OVER 30,000.

Vermont Election Returns Show Republican Gains—Democrats Tried Tried Hard to Bring Plurality Down.

White River Junction, Vt., Sept. 7.—Returns received at midnight indicate that the republicans in Tuesday's state election elected the head of their ticket by a plurality equal, if not greater, than that returned for William W. Stickney when he was elected governor in 1900. Stickney, however, received the support of many gold democrats and the republicans generally did not look for more than 28,000 plurality in yesterday's election. Stickney was elected four years ago by 31,282 plurality over Senter.

Returns from 233 out of 246 cities and towns give Bell, republican, for governor, 46,242; Porter, democrat, 13,663.

The same places four years ago gave Stickney, republican, 45,823; Senter, democrat, 15,538.

David J. Foster, of Burlington, was elected to congress from the First district and Kittredge Haskins, of Brattleboro, from the Second district.

The vote for congressmen followed closely that for governor. With the exception of the three northern counties where local issues affected the normal vote, the complexion of the legislature was practically unchanged. This indicates that Senator Redfield Proctor will be re-elected.

The campaign was hard fought by both of the leading parties, the democrats bending their efforts to a reduction of the republican majority of 31,000 given to William W. Stickney for governor in 1900.

The law requiring majority elections for all candidates necessitated in several of the cities and larger towns balloting two or three times.

At Burlington the third ballot for representative began at 10 o'clock and the polls were not closed until midnight. The vote for governor had not then been tabulated. Two ballots were taken at Barre before the democratic candidate for the legislature was declared re-elected. At Rutland split ballots were also the cause for a second ballot.

SEVEN KILLED, 30 INJURED.

A Wabash Passenger Train Jumped the Track Near Pendleton, Mo.

Moberly, Mo., Sept. 7.—The southbound Wabash passenger train which left Des Moines for St. Louis at 6:40 a. m., was wrecked Tuesday near Pendleton, Mo., killing seven passengers and injuring more than 30 others. The dead:

J. E. Nichols, Macon, Mo.
Mrs. Henry Folcht, Huntingdon, Pa.
Mrs. C. H. Graves, La Plata, Mo.
Edna Patterson, La Plata, Mo.
Mrs. Henderson, La Plata, Mo.
Mrs. Anna Brenner, Macon, Mo.
Miss Hebler, daughter of A. F. Hebler, Macon, Mo.

The train, which was composed of an engine, baggage and smoking cars, day coach, diner and Pullman sleeper, was well filled, it being estimated by Wabash officials that there were about 500 persons on board. The train was running at its scheduled speed when the accident occurred.

The day coach left the track and, breaking loose from the baggage and smoking cars, plunged down an embankment, dragging the diner with it. The Pullman did not leave the track.

The heavy dining car crashed on top of the coach, and the majority of those killed and injured were passengers in the latter.

A STRIKE IS AVERTED.

Both Sides Made Concessions and the New York Elevated Road Will Not be Tied Up.

New York, Sept. 7.—The threatened elevated railroad strike here has been averted, an agreement having been reached at a five-hour conference which ended last night, between representatives of the Interborough Rapid Transit Co. and of the engineers, firemen and other employes of the road. The agreement is to be in force for three years, and its point of chief interest is that the motormen in the subway will be paid $3.50 a day for ten hours' work. Each side expressed entire satisfaction with the agreement.

The men conceded an hour and the company conceded 50 cents pay, the men having demanded $3.50 for a nine-hour day and the company having declared it would pay only $3 for a day of ten hours. All the other demands of the men which were conceded last Saturday with rights of seniority, priority and preference for all elevated employes who transfer to the subway, are made part of the agreement.

Odell Has Had Enough.

New York, Sept. 7.—Gov. Odell declared yesterday at a conference of republican state leaders that he would under no circumstances be a candidate for renomination. "I don't want the place; I wouldn't have it; and I don't want to hear anything more about it. Under no circumstances would I take the nomination and make the race," replied the governor to a suggestion of one of the leaders.

A Visit from European Lawmakers.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The members of the Inter-Parliamentary union, a body comprising delegates from England and from every legislative body in Europe, were the guests of the United States yesterday when a tour of the country began under the auspices of this government. Distinguished members of the various parliaments of the Old World to the number of 185 were officially welcomed to these shores at the military academy after a trip up the Hudson river from New York on board the revenue cutters Mohawk and Gresham.

No Gas.

Not long ago an old colored woman, of Virginia, visited a doctor and informed him that her husband was seriously ill. The doctor hastened home with her, and upon making a diagnosis of the man's case informed the wife that he had a hopeless case of gastritis.

"Gastritis!" ejaculated the old woman. "De lawd knows I don't know how he ever got gastritis, 'cause I don't burn a thing but coal and ile in dis house, an' but powerful little of that. — Philadelphia Ledger.

FOUR KILLED.

A PASSENGER TRAIN PLUNGED THROUGH A TRESTLE.

An Accident on the Seaboard Air Line Railroad—The Injured People Number Thirty-five.

Portsmouth, Va., Sept. 10.—Shortly after 1 o'clock Friday morning train No. 41 on the Seaboard Air Line railroad, consisting of an express car, a mail car, two day coaches and a Pullman sleeper, was derailed at a trestle just south of the Catawba river, in South Carolina, and 22 miles southwest of Monroe, N. C., followed by the wreck of a light engine and caboose, resulting in the death of four persons and the injuring of 35 others. The killed are:

Engineer E. Y. Barksdale, Abbeville, S. C.

Fireman Ed Roberts (colored), Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Black.

Unknown woman.

A number of colored laborers also were slightly hurt. At the offices of the Seaboard Air Line in this city it was stated that immediately after the receipt of the news of the accident a special train with wrecking outfit and doctors started from Monroe to the scene of the wreck.

J. M. Barr, first vice president of the road, said that there was evidence of a malicious attempt to wreck the train, a number of joints having been found disconnected. He gave the following details.

"Train No. 41 was in charge of Conductor Richard West and Engineer Gaston Mears. The wreck occurred at the trestle just south of Catawba river, South Carolina, and 22 miles southwest of Monroe, N. C. The engine passed over the trestle and went down the embankment, killing colored Fireman Ed Roberts and seriously injuring Engineer Mears. A light engine and caboose in charge of Conductor Chapman and Engineer Barksdale, which train was passed by No. 41 a short distance east of the point where the accident occurred, ran into the damaged trestle and on top of the passenger train, resulting in the death of the engineer of No. 19, the fireman of the passenger train and of Mrs. Black and an unknown lady passenger. Two Pullman employes, six railway employes, one mail clerk, one Southern Express employe and 23 passengers were injured."

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 10.—The wrecked train was running about 40 miles an hour when the trestle, which is about 300 feet long, spanning a meadow near the Catawba river, gave way. The engine and some of the cars passed over, but were drawn backward into the abyss and upon the other cars, and then to add to the disaster a light engine and caboose ran on top of the train before it could be flagged.

George S. Fitzwater, chief detective of the Seaboard Air Line, said yetserday that he had found some spikes and bolts and two angle-bars which had been removed from the track with clawbars.

TRADE OUTLOOK IS BETTER.

The Past Week Has Shown Considerable Improvement in Many Branches.

New York, Sept. 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Holiday influence is calculated to check distribution of merchandise, but the past week has brought more encouraging results in the business world, and from many points come reports of steadily expanding trade, while it is not exceptional to find comparisons with the corresponding week last year favorable to 1904. Retail trade in fall lines of dry goods, clothing, millinery and nearly all wearing apparel shows a healthy growth, and for hardware, household utensils and kindred lines there is a broader demand.

The best development of the week was the resumption of work in many industries that have suffered through strikes, while several serious controversies were averted. Crop progress is better than average and high prices promise large profits to the farmers. Railway freight is heavy, chiefly due to the marketing of grain and cotton, and earnings in August were 2.8 per cent. larger than in 1903. Domestic trade holds up better than foreign commerce, which suffers from prices above the views of consumers abroad, yet the last week's returns for this port are encouraging.

Failures this week numbered 200 in the United States, against 172 last year, and 16 in Canada, compared with 19 a year ago.

A Burglar's Confession.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 10.—B. F. Slagel, alias Robert Romaine, a deported colored miner under arrest here for burglary, has confessed to the county attorney to complicity in the Independence depot and the Vindicator mine explosions, in the Cripple Creek (Col.) district, last June, by which 15 non-union miners were killed outright and others injured. Romaine says he helped to place the dynamite and wires running beneath the depot and by which the charge was set off. Romaine gave the names of those whom he alleges were implicated with him in the plot.

Two Embezzlers are Arrested.

Cincinnati, Sept. 10.—Truxton Becker and Jackson A. Munsell, ticket agents at the Central Union depot, have been arrested and locked up at the Central police station on the charge of grand larceny. The arrests were made on a warrant sworn out by William Brown, general ticket agent, and the issuance of the papers was prompted by a confession made by the two men, in which they admitted that without connivance they had jointly appropriated a little over $7,000 from the various railroad companies that used the depot.

MEN ARE DEFEATED.

Mr. Donnelly Declares Stock Yards Strike Ended.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—The strike of the butcher workmen, which has demoralized the meat packing industry throughout the country for the last two months, was last night officially declared off by President Donnelly, of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of America.

The strike of the members of the affiliated unions at the stock yards who quit work in sympathy with the butchers will officially be called off today at a meeting of the conference board of the allied trades. This was decided upon at a meeting of the central body of the allied trades held last night.

When the packers were notified that it had been decided to end the strike they announced that they would give places as far as possible to the skilled men, but it was stated at the same time that many of these men would be unable to secure their old places, as in many cases the work was being performed in a satisfactory manner by men who had been secured since the commencement of the strike. It is expected that the majority of the unskilled men will be unable to secure their places again. It was the question of a wage scale for this class of men that brought about the strike, the packers refusing to sign an agreement with any class other than skilled workmen.

During the strike 53,000 persons have been involved in the struggle, which is estimated to have cost the men about $5,100,000 in wages, as against an estimated loss of $7,500,000 to the packers.

THE ARMY MANEUVERS.

Militiamen Went Hungry and Looted a Grocery.

Gainesville, Va., Sept. 8.—The first maneuver problem closed yesterday with Gen. Grant's force pushed through the left wing of Gen. Bell. This put the Blue force within two miles of Thoroughfare Gap, the objective point. However, Gen. Bell had Smith's brigade on the right and Barry's brigade on the left of this breach in his line and Col Wagner, chief umpire, draws no conclusion as to what might have happened had not hostilities ceased.

The militia displayed the usual disadvantage of experience in the field. Many of them ate their two days' rations the first day and went hungry yesterday. The regulars set them a good example in this respect, dividing their supply equally between the two days.

Gainesville, Va., Sept. 10.—The second maneuver problem ceased at 9 a. m. Friday with Gen. Bell, commanding the Brown army, demolishing Gen. Grant, commanding the Blue army, east of Bull Run. This result awards victory to the attacking force in each of the two problems and makes Gen. Grant the first victor and Gen. Bell the second so far as results can be estimated without bullets. The maneuvering and fighting yesterday was far the most spectacular of the campaign.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR CONCLAVE.

Competitive Drill—Officers Elected—Will Meet at Saratoga in 1907.

San Francisco, Sept. 8.—Louisville, Kentucky, commandery No. 1 yesterday won the first prize in the drill corps competition of the triennial conclave of Knights Templar. The competition drill between four well drilled teams was the day's feature of the conclave. St. Bernard corps, of Chicago, second; Ivanhoe, of Milwaukee, third, and Malta, of Binghampton, N. Y., fourth. Fully 25,000 people witnessed the marching and countermarching of the competing teams. The prizes awarded were of great beauty and value. Three officers of the United States army acted as judges of the drill contest.

San Francisco, Sept. 9.—Saratoga Springs, N. Y., was yesterday chosen as the meeting place of the next conclave of Knights Templar in July, 1907. The following officers were elected: Grand master, George M. Moulton, of Illinois; deputy grand master, Henry W. Rugg, of Rhode Island; grand generalissimo, William B. Melish, of Ohio; grand captain general, Frank H. Thomas, of Washington.

A Warning to Officeholders.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Acting Secretary Oliver, of the war department, has issued a circular of warning against political assessments and partisan activity of officeholders. This circular embodies the provisions of the civil service act of January 16, 1883, making political assessments of federal officers and employes a misdemeanor punishable by fine not exceeding $5,000, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years, or by fine and imprisonment both, in the discretion of the court.

Democratic Editors Feasted.

New York, Sept. 8.—Nearly 500 democratic editors from all parts of the United States met at a banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria last night, the occasion being a national conference of democratic editors. The toast list included several of the best known democratic editors in the country, and all of them responded to toasts on political subjects. When "Dixie" was played the diners, many of whom were from the south, jumped to their feet and the rebel yell was given several times.

A Big Order for Armor Plate.

Pittsburg, Sept. 8.—Agents of the Japanese government yesterday closed a contract with the Carnegie Steel Co. for an order of 7,500 tons of the finest grade of nickel steel plates. The plates are for use on Japanese battleships. The order will keep the 84 and 184-inch mills of the Homestead plant busy for three months.

An Order that Benefits 15,000 People.

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 8.—The extensive Pennsylvania railroad shops here were yesterday ordered on full time of 55 hours a week. Fifteen thousand people are benefited by the order.

Mr. Howard's Platform.

Whenever the Democratic party in county, state or nation does succeed in uniting upon a statement of its principles and policies, such a statement is usually found to be made up for the most part of negations. The Democratic party does not believe in protection, in the gold standard, in administrative initiative, or in an alert state department, as the case may be. In the present national campaign the Democratic utterances may be all boiled down to the following sentence: "We do not beleive in Theodore Roosevelt." Upon this lame negative cry the Democrats profess to rely for victory.

In contrast to this negative attitude stands the positive and progressive attitude of Republicanism, an attitude which finds expression in Mr. Josiah Howard's platform. Every word and every note in his platform and in his star stands for something positive. The Independent raises the objection that, with the exception of the protective tariff, every one of Mr. Howard's points might be incorporated into a statement of Democratic principles. Regarding the Home, we admit gladly that good Democrats are as loyal to it as are good Republicans; neither do we claim a monopoly of interest in churches and religion for the Republicans. We believe, too, that the Democratic party in Cameron county is loyal to our public school system, and we know some good Democrats who are not averse to good roads or good farming and who take an interest occasionally in a game of ball. Nevertheless, we believe that all these institutions and forms of life are more beholden to the positive, constructive genius of Republicanism than to the negative, critical genius of Democracy. Though a Demoerat might heartily accept a platform like Mr. Howard's when once it is stated, it is really hard to conceive of a Democrat, especially a candidate, taking the iniative in formulating such a platform. The public has greater confidence in the man who states positively and independently his ideas and convictions than it has in the man who merely says, "I do not hold to anything different from that."

The Independent has changed its base on the Filipino question. At the late Democratic county convention the Independent editor was posing as the champion of the poor enslaved islanders. It is now referring to the Philippines as "yellow possessions," implying that this country should keep its skirts clear of such filth. It must be embarrassing to the Filipinos not to know certainly whether the Independent is their friend or not

It is a good thing that Secretary Wilson, of the Department of Agriculture, has returned from his stumping tour in Vermont and Maine, and again the helm. He will proceed to stop the leak in the monthly cotton and other crop reports, whereby some favored persons get the news in advance of the rest of the world, and he is contemplating the construction of wireless telegraph stations along the Atlantic coast so that sea captains can tell him what the weather is on the vasty deep. He reached Washington on Thursday, elated over the returns from Vermont, where he says the people were really alive to the importance of the campaign. He thinks they saw danger to prosperity if the Democrats should win. And he says the vote indicates the sentiment of all New England. The farmers of Vermont are satisfied, they have elected twenty members of their legislature, heretofore Democratic, to stay at home. Secretary Wilson says no marked impression was made on the Vermonters by either the Democratic campaign or the Democratic candidate. And Mr. Cortelyou remarks the returns "speak for themselves.

How About the Standard Oil.

"The common law as developed," said Judge Parker in his speech of acceptance, "affords a complete legal remedy against monopoly."

Then why have not the courts of New York dealt with the Standard Oil? It is a monopoly. It does business in New Yerk. Its headquarters are there, "26 Broadway" is a pretty familiar address to McCarren and others running Judge Parker's New York campaign. The tariff does not help the Standard Oil. It gets on help from duties. It has been at work for twenty years. Its operations are free from every check on monopoly known to the common law.

Who? Because the common law has no weapon against it. The Standard Oil is a New Jersey corporation. It makes no reports. It publishes no returns of earnings or business, weekly, monthly or yearly. Its charter gives no share holder power to look into its accounts. Its operations are secret under the kindly aid New Jersey law offers by changing the common law to suit such corporations.

The Standard Oil to-day is a citadel of $100,000,000 which one man controls in absolute secrecy and with irresponsible power. It is chartered in New Jersey. It does business in every State. No State can reach it because it is a New Jersey corporation. New Jersey law leaves it free of secrutiny. It can by organizing subsidiary corporations keep out of interstate commerce. Under Judge Parker's deciaion on the Drug Trust it can by system of agents maintain prices and crush rivals in defiance of the various anti-trust laws, yet passed by Congress and the States.

The common law is as antiquated in dealing with this corporate octopus as a cross-bow against an ironclad. Chartered by one State, controlled by no other, able to evade all State laws because it is in interstate commerce and able, under the "common law," by the trick of subsidiary corporations to avoid Federal statues on interstate commerce, the Standard Oil Company has been for twenty years entrenched and safe from all scrutiny and all control, as long as the public was fool enough to listen to men like Judge Parker who say:—

"The common law as developed affords a complete legal remedy against monopoly."

Only one thing the Standard Oil fears: A Federal law requiring Federal reports of all its operations. The statute creating the Department of Commerce and Labor gave this power. It was opposed by the Standard Oil. Its head brazenly telegraphed to Senators to forbid its passage. It was enacted because President Roosevelt's speeches and his policy brought the passage of the act over the head of the Standard Oil.

Under it, as reports are made and the operations of this trust are laid bare, the Standard Oil faces something more than the "common law" Judge Parker invokes. This trust is safe enough with him as President, and on every side its support for him appears. Its head and all its forces have opposed the re-election of President Roosevelt from the hour when he demanded more than the "common law" to regulate monopolies like the Standard Oil.—Philadelphia Press.

Emergency Medicines.

It is a good convenience to have at hand reliable remedies for use in cases of accident and for slight injuries and ailments. A good liniment and one that is fast becoming a favorite, if not a household necessity is Chamberlain's Pain Balm. By applying it promptly to a cut, bruise or burn it allays the pain and causes the injury to heal in about one-third the time usually required, and as it is an antiseptic it prevents any danger of blood poisoning. When Pain Balm is kept at hand a sprain may be treated before inflamation sets in, which insures a quick recovery. For sale by L. Taggart.

He Wouldn't Miss Prayer.

When Professor Tucker was "Tutor" Tucker at Bowdoin college the bell rang for prayers at the chapel, as now, very early in the morning, and it was imperative upon tutors and pupils to respond. As a tutor Mr. Tucker was very popular, although very strict, and he was always prompt to take his place at the head of his class at the early morning devotions.

One morning, however, he found his clothing gone and his door nailed while the bell was ringing. Finding a hatchet he soon split the door down, and at the last stroke of the bell appeared, clothed in his shirt and a pair of overalls, barefooted, but with a smile of serenity on his expressive countenance. He took his customary place, and neither then nor afterward were words of complaint heard from him.

MY BABY.

[In memory of Basel Donald Leadbetter, only child of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Leadbetter, who died Sept. 3rd, 1904.]

Such a little break in the sod,
So tiny to be a grave;
Oh! how can I render so soon to God,
The beautiful gift he gave.

Must I put you away, my pet,
My tender bud unblown;
With the dew of the morning upon you yet,
And your blossoms all unshown?

My heart is near to break,
For the voice I shall not hear;
For the clinging arms around my neck,
And the foot-steps drawing near.

The tiny tottering feet,
Striving for mother's knee;
For the lisping tones so sweet,
And the baby's kiss to me.

For the precious mother name,
And the touch of the little hands
Of am I so very much to blame,
If I shrink from the sore demand.

How shall I know his voice,
Or the greeting of his eyes;
Amid the countless cherubs,
That rejoice in the gardens of Paradise.

How shall I know my own,
Where the air is white with wings;
My babe so soon from my bosom flown,
To the angels minsterings?

And this is the end of it all,
Of my waiting and my pain;
Only a little funeral pall
And empty arms again.

O, baby! my heart is sore,
For the love that was to be;
For the untried dream of love, now o'er,
Twixt thee my child and me.

Yet over this little head,
Lying so still on my knee;
I thank my God for the bliss of the dead,
For the joy of the soul set free

'Tis a weary world at best,
This world that he will not know;
Would I waken him out of such perfect rest,
For its sorrow and strife? Ah, no!

Escaped are its thorns and harms,
The only path he has trod;
Is that which leads from the mother's arms,
Into the arms of God.

Will Head Republican Orators In Stumping Pennsylvania.

PENROSE IS WORKING HARD

This State Has Been Especially Favored By the Assignment of Prominent Men to Speak For the Republican Ticket.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, Sept. 13.

Pennsylvania Republicans are being especially favored in the present campaign.

Notwithstanding the fact that this state is admittedly going to give Roosevelt and Fairbanks a glorious majority, the national leaders of the Republican party have shown unusual consideration for the Republican organization of Pennsylvania. They recognize that Pennsylvania is a great power not only in the Republican organization of the nation, but in the congress of the United States. Pennsylvania has next to the largest number of delegates sent from any state to the Republican national convention. Her influence in the national councils of the party is frequently more potential than that of any other state, because in recent years she has invariably sent a solid delegation to the Republican national conventions.

The nomination of Roosevelt for the vice presidency in Philadelphia in 1900 was the result of the action of the late Senator Quay, with Senator Penrose co-operating, in swinging the Pennsylvania delegation into line early for Roosevelt and thus forming an organization which the late Senator Hanna was unable to defeat.

So at Chicago, at the recent Republican convention, Senator Penrose, the new leader of the Republican organization of Pennsylvania, led the way for the nomination of Fairbanks for vice president, the Pennsylvania delegation being the first influential body of delegates to meet in caucus and decide to vote as a unit for the Indiana favorite. This started the stampede to Fairbanks, and his unanimous nomination quickly followed.

Vice Presidential Candidate Fairbanks is coming to Pennsylvania to show his appreciation of the support which Senator Penrose and his colleagues in the Pennsylvania delegation gave him at Chicago. Although he is in great demand in doubtful states, Senator Fairbanks has accepted an invitation to speak at the convention of Republican clubs which is to be opened in Reading on September 21, and he will no doubt there reiterate his acknowledgment of the support which Pennsylvania gave him at Chicago and which he personally made to Senator Penrose when he called upon him after the adjournment of the national convention.

The young Republicans of the State League feel highly honored that Senator Fairbanks should come to this state at this time. They have appointed a committee to meet him in Baltimore and escort him to Reading, where he will address a meeting in the Academy of Music on the evening of Wednesday, September 21.

Secretary Andrews, of the Republican state committee, says great preparations are being made by the Republicans of Reading to entertain the visitors on that occasion. A delegation of active spirits on the several committees addressed a meeting of the Allied Republican Clubs in Philadelphia a few nights ago, and they guaranteed an enjoyable time for all of the delegates and those who may accompany them. The convention will open on the morning of September 21. There will be a trip to Mount Penn that afternoon, and in the evening there will be a grand parade of local and visiting Republicans prior to the meeting which will be held in the evening. The convention will hold two sessions the following day.

Pennsylvania, it is seen, wields a power in Republican national conventions, and she is second to no other state in the strength of her Republican delegation on the floor of congress. In Republican congressional caucuses she has more votes than has any other state. Her influence in shaping the action of the Republican members of congress can thus be appreciated.

It is a fitting compliment to the Republican congressional delegation from the Keystone state that the veteran speaker of the house of representatives, "Uncle Joe" Cannon, should tender his services to help maintain the prestige of the Republican delegation from Pennsylvania in congress. Speaker Cannon has accepted an invitation to speak in York in support of the candidacy of Congressman Lefean for re-election in the York-Adams district. This is normally a Democratic district, but Congressman Lefean has carried it at the last two elections. Speaker Cannon, in accepting the invitation to address a meeting in the district of Mr. McLean, wrote: "Next my neighbors in Illinois, my home state, I feel more at home among Pennsylvania Republicans than among any others. They are of the sturdy, true blue, ever loyal and aggressive school of Republicanism that appeals to me. We want Pennsylvania to continue as the banner Republican state in the country, and I will do my best to help her keep her Republican strength in the house of representatives. Pennsylvania's interests are so great; they are so much dependent upon Republican supremacy that every Republican candidate for congress in the old Keystone state should have the backing of the full strength of the Republican organization, local, state and national, to insure victory in November."

In Praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"Allow me to give you a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mr. John Hamlett, of Eagle Pass, Texas. "I suffured one week with bowel trouble and took all kinds of medicine without getting any relief, when my friend, Mr. C. Johnson, a merchant here, advised me to take this remedy. After taking one dose I felt greatly relieved and when I had taken the third dose was entirely cured. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for putting this great remedy in the hands of mankind." UNDERTAKING

"IT IS NOTHING."

Do you remember, long and long ago,
When griefs came—weighty griefs that meet a child—
And you went in to her to sob your woe,
How patiently and soothingly she smiled?
Do you remember how she healed each bruise
And stopped the hurt that came from slip or fall?
How suddenly the little pain you'd lose
At: "It is nothing—nothing much, at all."

Do you remember how, long, long ago,
You would awaken, trembling in your fright
When some fearsome things, which only children know,
Were peering wildly at you from the night?
Do you remember how she made you see
They were but waving shadows on the wall,
And how she wove into a lullaby
Her "It is nothing—nothing much, at all?"

And you remember, long and long ago,
How every little fret of night or day
Before her talisman, when whispered low,
Would vanish, would be driven quite away;
And you remember, too, how each soft word
A newer happiness to you would call,
As though the joys of youth came when they heard
Her "It is nothing—nothing much, at all."

And can you hear it now? Of all the rest
That life has let us keep within our hold,
This memory must be the very best—
This precious thing that is not bought or sold.
When days are dark and nights are saddened, now,
Out from the shrouding silence does there fall,
While her cool fingers seem to touch the brow,
This: "It is nothing—nothing much, at all?"

The Mountaineer's Dream

By HUGH A. C. WALKER

THE air of sleepy quiet which had brooded over the little valley town for a year had changed to a buzz of excitement. Commencement was on again at Watauga college; the town was full of enthusiastic alumni and visiting friends from every corner of the surrounding country.

It was on a different errand that the two Arvey brothers had come down from their home on Stump House in their white-covered wagon. Only a month before their father had died, leaving his large family dependent upon the two grown-up sons, and they were at Watauga for the purpose of straightening up his small business affairs and making certain arrangements concerning the management of their little mountain farm.

This required only a short time, however, and on Tuesday morning they found themselves drifting with the crowd toward the college, wholly ignorant of the exercises going on there. The scene on the inside was a revelation to both, for never before had an Avery, from Stump House, been within a college building. There, upon the high old rostrum, sat the young men of the graduating class, clothed in their best, the center of attraction to all the vast assembly below. One by one they stood before the audience, and with fervent, rustic eloquence delivered their graduating speeches, each of which called forth enthusiastic applause, loads of flowers, and a crash of discordant music from the noisy brass band in the gallery. Then, when the speeches were all over, the gayly beribboned diplomas were handed to the graduates by the president, after which came more applause and another rapturous burst of music from the gallery. The scene—impressive to those who were most accustomed to Watauga commencements—was one which remained forever fadeless in the memories of the mountaineer brothers.

The Arveys' journey home that afternoon was an unusually quiet one. For hour after hour neither spoke; both sat gazing in a kind of trance upon the mountain scenery which had been familiar to them from childhood. No sound disturbed the stillness except the rumble of the wagon and the hoof-strokes of the little mules upon the flinty mountain road. It was the older brother who broke the silence.

"Tom," he said, "I'm gwine ter stan' on thet same platform some day an' say my speech an' git my paper."

"I've sworn the same, Gus," came the laconic reply; "the Arveys hev got ter be heerd frum."

It was doubtless fortunate for the brothers that they could not comprehend the obstacles that lay between them and the doors of the college; both had times of discouragement, and it required the strongest determination, combined with frequent visits to Watauga for fresh inspiration, to keep them faithful. At the end of three years, however, by persistent labor and with the aid of the teacher at Double Springs, himself a Watauga graduate, they had prepared themselves for entrance into college.

As it was found impossible for both to attend at the same time, the rather delicate situation arose of deciding which one should first enjoy the coveted privilege.

"I s'pose, Gus, bein' the oldest, you ought to be the first to go," Tom suggested, rather reluctantly.

But Tom had not proven a very successful farmer, and that was probably the reason for the plan proposed by Gus.

"No, Tom," he explained, "if you go on now an' graduate you can help me along a sight better. Besides, I alw'ys seemed to have a kind o' knack o' runnin' the farm; you must go first."

So it was decided. On the first day of October Gus carried Tom and his little handful of belongings down to Watauga in the wagon, and after seeing him properly settled in his new world, turned his own face again toward Stump House.

It was dark when the wagon rolled into the yard. After the mules had been stabled and fed, Gus stood for a few moments looking silently across the mountains as the night slowly fell around them and blotted them from view. In the window of a cabin across on Roundtop a red light flickered, and there came to his ears the sound of a girl's mellow contralto voice singing an old corn-shucking song.

"Leastways, I'll be near Annie," he said, with almost a sigh. Then he walked slowly across the yard and entered the house.

"Good evening!"

"'Evenin', sir!"

"Trying to cool off some, are you? Rather warm weather yet—for October."

"Well, no, sir, I wasn't here for that partic'lar purpose; but it is about as cool a place as I've struck, this side o' the mountains. Just stopped to take a look at the old college as I was passin'."

The first speaker was Dr. Blackwood, the venerable president of Watauga college, dignified but kind-hearted, tall and straight in spite of his years—a perfect picture of the old southern gentleman. While walking across the campus toward his home he had come upon the stranger seated on the ground under a magnificent water-oak and gazing intently at the college building. In the road a few steps away stood a white-covered wagon to which two sturdy-looking little mules were hitched. In the background beyond the college stretched the dim outlines of the Blue Ridge.

As the doctor showed no disposition to move on, the stranger, with an air of deference, rose to his feet and leaned his long, gaunt form against the water-oak. The doctor continued:

"You have never seen the building before? Or is there something in its architecture that interests you?"

"Oh, yes, doctor, I've seen it a good many times. To tell the truth I king o" love the old place, somehow; used to think I'd come to school here myself, but my dreams never did come true. Still, I love to stop here an' watch the boys an' just imagine I'm one of 'em, don't you see?"

The doctor's next step was to inquire the stranger's name, for he had become deeply interested in his story.

"Arvey," came the answer, and the stranger's rough, brown hand took within its strong grasp the soft, white one of the doctor.

"From Stump House?"

"Yes, sir."

"Related to Tom Arvey that graduated here in '88?"

"Yes, sir, he's my younger brother."

"You don't say so!" exclaimed the old gentleman. "Why, I am truly glad to know you, Mr. Arvey. How is Tom getting along? The last news I had of him he had gone out west soon after graduating—four years ago it must be?"

"Yes," replied Arvey, "Tom went west just four years ago. I never heard from him since he left; don't even know if he's alive. He was to help me through college, but, poor fellow, I don't know what's become of him. It's all right now, anyhow, for I'm too old. Besides, the home was all broken up by deaths and marriages, and it was powerful lonesome livin' in the old house all by myself—an' I couldn't 'a' asked Annie to wait on me any longer. We're mighty happy in our little home up yonder; but I've never quit dreamin' of the college education I expected to have, an' every time I come down this way I set here an' just look at the old place over there. An', somehow, it alw'ys seems to make me feel better—an' I go back to Annie with a lighter an' stronger heart. We've got a fine little feller at home, just a year old—named Tom; I'm goin' to send him down here some day to take my place an' live out my dream for me."

The mountaineer shaded his eyes with his hand and looked at the sun in the west. From a group of students sprawling on the grass near the college came the strains of an old song:

"Oh, he never cares to wander from his own fireside" . . .

"Now I must get started for home," he said, "for it's gettin' late; good-by, doctor."

A moment later a whip was cracked over the heads of the little mules, and the white-covered wagon was rumbling away toward the mountains.

ANTIQUE CHAIRS TO ORDER.

Paris Woodworkers Devise Scheme for Giving Furniture Desired Worm-Eaten Appearance.

The vast industry maintained in Paris to pawn off fake curios and antiquities on unsuspecting Croesuses has hit upon a new plan. "Ticks," or wood fretters, required to give psuedo-antique furniture an air of old age, are now "cultivated" in large droves on potatoes. Formerly they were hard to obtain, but now there are millions of the vermin. The fakirs let loose the wood fretters on the imitation furniture before it is painted or varnished. They are allowed to "work" for about six weeks—if they worked longer, the chair, sofa, or table would fall into dust. After six weeks the worms are killed by a discharge of X rays. Only then the piece of furniture is painted and upholstered and ready for the antique parlor.

Short Telegrams FROM THE Theater of War

RUSSIANS REACHED MUKDEN.

Paris, Sept. 8.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Echo De Paris says:

"A great battle is going on before Mukden. The First and Seventeenth corps are engaged against Gen Kuroki. Gen. Kuropatkin with the bulk of his troops is moving towards Tieling."

St. Petersburg, Sept. 8.—The bulk of the Russian Manchurian army is near Mukden, where, it appears, Gen. Kuropatkin has been since Monday. His troops are not entering the city, but are taking up positions around Mukden. While there is no specific information on this point, the general staff believes that only a small rear guard is in the neighborhood of Yentai.

The general staff is not displaying great anxiety over the reports that Gen. Kuropatkin is in serious danger of being cut off, but if they had any information from the front Wednesday they have not revealed it. The members also decline to say, even if they knew, whether Kuropatkin purposes taking his army north of Mukden.

Kuropatkin's movements, after all, must depend chiefly on the tactics of the Japanese, with whom lies the initiative. If the Japanese continue to press north in the hope of cutting off the Russians and bringing them to bay, then Kuropatkin will be obliged to move north to circumvent them.

LAND MINE EXPLODED.

Che Foo, Sept. 9.—A Japanese column, numbering about 700 men, while marching along at night on a road in the valley between Long Hill and Division Hill, near Port Arthur, met a frightful disaster through the explosion of an electric land mine September 1. The mine was carefully laid by the Russians three weeks ago. It covered nearly a mile of available marching space.

Near midnight the outposts rushed in and reported that the Japanese were approaching. The Russians withheld their fire for some time. Suddenly they threw a searchlight up the valley. The Japanese opened with a rifle fire. The Russians waited until apparently the whole Japanese column was in the danger zone. Then the mine was exploded. The force of the explosion knocked a number of Russians down, and the sight of Japanese rifles, water bottles, legs and arms hurling through the lighted space made by the searchlight was an awful spectacle. Some rocks landed inside the Russian lines.

The best information of the war office indicates that Kuropatkin lost about 17,000 men during the ten days' battle at Liao Yang.

QUIET REIGNS

There is still a lack of specific information regarding the exact situation in Manchuria. The Russian general staff, lacking details, is unable to speak authoritatively, while advices from Japanese sources are significantly lacking. It is established that the Russian army is safely at Mukden and that the retreat was accomplished in good order, in spite of the harrassing Japanese, sodden roads, and the fact that Kuropatkin was hampered by more than 12,000 wounded.

There is nothing yet to indicate the exact whereabouts of the three Japanese armies. When last heard from Kuroki's forces were on the Russian left flank and steadily pushing northword, but Viceroy Alexieff reports that railway and telegraph communication between Mukden and Harbin is uninterrupted. Gen. Sakharoff reports that there was no fighting during Thursday and while the outposts are still in contact they are not even exchanging shots. It seems to be established that Oyama's troops practically abandoned on Wednesday the attempt to head off Kuropatkin, and that the last determined effort to bring the Russian commander to bay was made on Tuesday.

The last news from Mukden came in a dispatch filed Friday night. It tells of a great downpour of rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning, which, the correspondent says, is considered advantageous, as it has checked the movements of the Japanese eastern and southern armies. The correspondent adds that quiet reigns over the whole front.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 10.—Some descriptions of the scenes along the line of retreat are almost incredible. They tell how the men laid down in the mud and slept in a drenching rain and without shelter.

The work of burying the dead was left to the Japanese, who were forced to attempt the task as a matter of self-preservation, but it was almost impossible. The awful rains have handicapped the work of cremation on which the Japanese relied and only shallow trench burials were possible under the circumstances. Not only is this work one of the greatest difficulty, but it is almost valueless from a sanitary point of view, the storms undoing it soon after it is accomplished.

Hot Spring Stopped Work on Tunnel.

Rome, Sept. 10.—Work on the Simplon tunnel, which it was expected would be completed by the beginning of next month, was suddenly stopped Friday, owing to the exposure of a hot spring flowing 1,500 gallons per minute, while the temperature in the tunnel reached 112 degrees. Refrigerators will be installed and the work resumed a month from date. The Simplon tunnel, which is being cut through Simplon mountain, will be 21,374 yards long, and it has already been pierced for a distance of 21,142 yards.

TESTING COAL FOR GAS.

Successful Methods Employed in Germany Which Have Considerably Increased Product.

Prof. Drehschmidt, of the German Association of Gas and Water Engineers, said recently to that body that to arrive at a proper judgment respecting the chemical composition of coal a thorough distillation is necessary, and for that purpose an experimental gas works solely for that object. The best method is to erect a bed of one or two retorts of normal size, quite independent of the works, but with all the other apparatus—purifiers, scrubbers, and the rest of the plant complete, so as to conform with an ordinary works, but in the same proportion as the experimental bed. In this way it is easier to superintend the work; and the alterations required by the coal under examination can be readily made—such as in the temperature of the bed, the size of the charge, and the duration of the distillation. These various conditions must be altered until the best results possible can be obtained from the coal under examination. That is, each type of coal should be subjected to that treatment which will return the highest yield of gas. At the municipal gas works in Berlin a number of tests have been made on these lines, and by such means of experimenting they have succeeded in increasing the product of a certain coal from 305 cubic meters per ton to 320 cubic meters. Prof. Drehschmidt contends that it is not possible to make quite sure of any determination from the chemical composition of coal as to what is the maximum yield possible of gas and by-products of any class. This, he says, is proved by a great many tests and the collection of much statistical information, so that he recommends every works to have an experimental station in order to ascertain for itself the best working procedure to get the most profitable yield from the coal.

They Work While You Sleep.

A flock of chickens belonging to A. Charles, a Maumee valley, O., farmer, has developed the trait of sleeping daytimes and roving about at night. The chickens are kept near a gas well from which there is a constant blaze. They have learned that the light at night attracts bugs, which they can easily catch, and have completely changed their habits.

BUILDING FOOD

To Bring the Babies Around.

When a little human machine (or a large one) goes wrong, nothing is so important as the selection of food which will always bring it around again.

"My little baby boy fifteen months old had pneumonia, then came brain fever, and no sooner had he got over these than he began to cut teeth and, being so weak, he was frequently thrown into convulsions," says a Colorado mother.

"I decided a change might help, so took him to Kansas City for a visit. When we got there he was so very weak when he would cry he would sink away and seemed like he would die.

"When I reached my sister's home she said immediately that we must feed him Grape-Nuts and, although I had never used the food, we got some and for a few days gave him just the juice of Grape-Nuts and milk. He got stronger so quickly we were soon feeding him the Grape-Nuts itself and in a wonderfully short time he fattened right up and became strong and well.

"That showed me something worth knowing and, when later on my girl came, I raised her on Grape-Nuts and she is a strong, healthy baby and has been. You will see from the little photograph I send you what a strong, chubby youngster the boy is now, but he didn't look anything like that before we found this nourishing food. Grape-Nuts nourished him back to strength when he was so weak he couldn't keep any other food on his stomach." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

All children can be built to a more sturdy and healthy condition upon Grape-Nuts and cream. The food contains the elements nature demands, from which to make the soft gray filling in the nerve centers and brain. A well fed brain and strong, sturdy nerves absolutely insure a healthy body.

WOMAN'S VARIOUS CHARMS

A Clever Definition of Some of the Most Captivating Characteristics of the Fair Sex.

Animation, brightness, vivacity are some of woman's most captivating charms. A tear may move pity, but it is a smile that commands admiration. Even a witty woman must not be forever sparkling—that is monotonous and wearying; the perpetual flashing of diamonds tires the eyes and the brain. She must have her sober moments, if only to throw into higher relief the moments when she is gay. A woman is most charming when she is tender and sympathetic. She may dazzle when she is merry, but when she is gentle and full of sympathy she enchants a man's heart. When her voice takes a softened tone, and her eyes look words that her lips hesitate to say—then, if she only knew her power, it would be a time of peril for the world at large! She could do with it what she chose; only she never knows it. Probably she charms the most when she is most unconscious of her power. The very unconsciousness is a part of the charm. A woman is always charming when she is good-natured. Bad temper never charmed. Sarcasm may amuse when it is directed against some one else, but it does not win anyone's heart. Good temper is an attraction even in a plain woman. When a woman has that in addition to her other qualities—when she is natural in her manners, unconscious, lively, tender and gentle—then, indeed, she is charming to all the world. Sometimes she possesses a quality known as fascination, which no one has ever yet been able to define—a quality outside of and beyond all the attractions above mentioned, and independent of them to the ordinary eye. But with this fascination a very good substitute may be formed from the qualities already enumerated, and many a woman can cultivate these graces and make herself charming in the eyes of all who know her.—N. Y. Weekly.

TWO HANDY CONTRIVANCES

Little Things That Add to the Comfort of Travelers Cooped Up in Hotel Rooms.

When traveling around the land and particularly when taking a vacation jaunt in summer, the average individual does not expect to enjoy all the comforts of home at the hotel or boarding house by the shore or inland. The increase in numbers of the traveling public has in these later years brought about a diminution of discomfort for the tourist, and ingenious mortals rack their brains and sit up nights evolving contrivances that shall help to make the traveler's way more agreeable and pleasant. Scarcity of closet room is the cry all over the land where summer tourists seek temporary quarters, and the coat hanger devised for the use of the traveler fills a special want. The most placid minded, even-tempered woman does not view a crumpled frock or jacket with equanimity, and the traveler's coat hanger therefore meets with approval. As shown, it is fashioned just like the ordinary hanger, except for a slide arrangement in the center which permits of its being reduced to one-half normal size for packing purposes. Six of these nickeled hangers constitute a set and they come in a neat little leather case and will tuck away in a corner of a trunk without the least bother.

HANDY FOR TRAVELERS.

Another little contrivance which the traveler is pretty certain to find of service is the twine ball holder, also of leather, with a small pair of scissors, held in place on the outside of the case by a narrow strap of leather.—Brooklyn Eagle.

HINTS FOR FARM BUILDERS

How to Put a Durable Foundation Under Structures Put Up Some Seasons Before.

The illustration shows an excellent plan for putting a tight foundation under a barn or other structure that is already built. This is usually a difficult matter, particularly if the building is close to the ground. Foundation should extend down below frost line.

Dig a trench (t) close to the barn, as shown, and then under the barn to required distance to accommodate width of foundation. Exactly under edge of building at bottom of wide trench drive stakes and put down a rough board (w), as shown in cut. Fill in behind board with loose stones (s), putting on other boards and adding more stones until they stand level with the surface of the ground. The trench outside the barn is now filled in with earth, packing down solidly. Leave old boards where they are. Flat stones (f) can now be put in above the ground and cemented. Sometimes it is found more convenient to place these stones before filling in outside trench.—A. D. Brewer, in Farm and Home.

WASTE MUST BE STOPPED.

Many Farmers Fail Because They Do Not Practice Any Rational System of Fertilizing.

On the average the American farmer wastes each year more than enough to keep his family. Enormous wastes are going on in many ways, but the greatest one is the waste of farm-fertility.

Preserve what fertility is already in the soil, and put more in it. It may be that some farmers do not know the value of manure, as some are giving it away in order to get it out of the way. Others are burning the straw-stacks instead of using the straw for bedding, which would increase the value of the manure. I know this from observation. Farmers waste much of the value of manure by putting it in piles in the barnyard, and letting it take the weather for months. If the yard happens to be near a creek or pond, a great part of the fertility finds its way into it, and probably one-half of its value is lost.

I think that if some of our farmers could visit among the rural population of Germany, and note their methods for saving manure, most of them would take a lesson home with them. Most of the German farmers are successful, and their success seems to be due to the careful saving and applying of fertility.

Why cannot we stop this waste by saving and applying all the manure, by keeping more live stock, by cultivating our soil properly and retaining the elements of fertility, and by studying the subject and applying the thoughts gained? We must stop this waste if we want our land to be kept in a high state of fertility.—E. J. Waterstripe, in Farm and Fireside.

GIVE THE BOYS POULTRY.

One Way of Inducing Children to Work Contentedly and Happily on the Old Farm.

As usual, there is loud complaint from farmers that the children brought up on the farm are getting uneasy and want to try their wings elsewhere. This is not to be wondered at when these young people hear and read of what is going on in the world. The monotony of country life seems unbearable to them, especially when from the farm they obtain only plenty of hard work, the food they eat and the clothes they wear. True, one may say that is about all anyone gets out of life, but if we can plan some way by which the young people can make a start for themselves they will be much more contented.

The Indianapolis News thinks that poultry offers a way of trying out the feeling of the young folks at small expense. Give them a chance to raise poultry and have the proceeds for their own use, and in a year or two they will have become reconciled to country life and be willing to make it their future or they will have shown their utter lack of adaptability for it, in which case the best thing for them and for the parent is to let them leave the farm and take up the work for which they are better fitted, but don't lose your grasp on the young people without first giving them a chance to do for themselves on the farm and show what is in them.

New Remedy for Insects.

The fact that the odor of moth balls is extremely repugnant to house insects has suggested to some ingenious mind the use of this remedy against outdoor pests. A New York farmer who was much annoyed by the ravages of striped beetles on cucumbers employed moth balls with such success that his neighbors are imitating him. He placed a clam shell (hollow side up) in the center of the hill, with about five balls in each shell. This might be tried with other injurious insects.

Mrs. Weisslitz, president of the German Womans' Club of Buffalo, N. Y., after doctoring for two years, was finally cured of her kidney trouble by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Of all the diseases known with which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless prompt and correct treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives.

Being fully aware of this, Mrs. Pinkham, early in her career, gave careful study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for woman's ills—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—made sure that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was certain to control that dreaded disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women.

Read What Mrs. Weisslitz Says.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For two years my life was simply a burden, I suffered so with female troubles, and pains across my back and loins. The doctor told me that I had kidney troubles and prescribed for me. For three months I took his medicines, but grew steadily worse. My husband then advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and brought home a bottle. It is the greatest blessing ever brought to our home. Within three months I was a changed woman. My pain had disappeared, my complexion became clear, my eyes bright, and my entire system in good shape."—MRS. PAULA WEISSLITZ, 176 Seneca St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Proof that Kidney Trouble can be Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel very thankful to you for the good your medicine has done me. I had doctored for years and was steadily growing worse. I had trouble with my kidneys, and two doctors told me I had Bright's disease; also had falling of the womb, and could not walk a block at a time. My back and head ached all the time, and I was so nervous I could not sleep; had hysteria and fainting spells, was tired all the time, had such a pain in my left side that I could hardly stand at times without putting my foot on something.

"I doctored with several good doctors, but they did not help me any. I took, in all, twelve bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five boxes of Liver Pills, and used three packages of Sanative Wash, and feel like a new woman, can eat and sleep well, do all my own work, and can walk two miles without feeling over tired. The doctors tell me that my kidneys are all right now. I am so happy to be well, and I feel that I owe it all to your medicine."—MRS. OPAL STRONG, Dalton, Mass.

PARKER HAS A "HOODOO"

John Markle, Coal Baron, Lines Up Workingmen Against Him.

VENTING SPLEEN ON ROOSEVELT

Men Who Advocate the "Shot Gun" Policy of Settling Labor Disputes Naturally Take Kindly to the Wall Street Candidate.

[Special Correspondence.]

Harrisburg, Sept. 13.

Pennsylvania has furnished Judge Parker, the Democratic nominee for president, with a "hoodoo."

His name is John Markle.

Markle is the Luzerne coal baron, who believes in settling labor disputes with the shotgun. He does not like President Roosevelt because President Roosevelt did not send federal troops into the coal region two years ago, and with them enable Markle and his associates to carry out their schemes of intimidation. The whole country was then shocked by the awful demand that a thousand miners be shot rather than have the mines started up under any but the conditions imposed by the coal barons.

Who does not recall the suffering which the public had to endure through this coal strike? Who does not remember how the price of coal went soaring skyward, how the poor were freezing and the rich, ready to pay any price for coal, were frequently unable to get even a small supply?

President Roosevelt's action, not as a public official, but as a citizen interested in the general welfare, in urging that the issues in the coal strike be submitted to arbitration was generally applauded at the time. The strike was ended and the miners and the operators, with one or two exceptions, cordially agreed to the terms of settlement. Markle dissented, but he was obliged to go along with the others.

Now John Markle is venting his spleen on President Roosevelt.

Although he has been a Republican for many years, he is out for Parker, the Democratic candidate for president. He has only one grievance against President Roosevelt—his action in the coal strike.

John Markle, according to the managers of the Republican campaign in this state, is making more votes for President Roosevelt than any other factor in the canvass in this state.

The Democratic leaders would give anything to have Markle muzzled for the balance of the campaign. They say they have been "hoodooed" ever since the announcement was made that Markle had put on a Parker button.

They want to forget that Markle is on earth. They know that thousands of workingmen throughout Pennsylvania and the entire Union, in fact, would not desire a better opportunity of showing their contempt for this disgruntled coal baron than by voting for President Roosevelt.

Markle's declaration for Parker has had the effect of emphasizing the fact that Parker's nomination for the presidency was brought about by Wall street, with Belmont in command of the corporation forces.

The Bryanites at St. Louis had no idea of what they were up against until they were confronted with the Wall street politicians of the David B. Hill type, and Wall street newspaper influence, which boomed Parker all over the country. Parker was distinctively the corporation candidate at the St. Louis convention. While Bryan and his followers had the cheers of the spectators, the Parker managers, who, with money to burn, had been going over the country setting up delegates in Parker's interest, had the votes on the floor of the convention.

The Parker candidacy naturally appeals to John Markle.

The Parker candidacy has not, however, aroused any enthusiasm among the rank and file of the voters. It has not appealed to the workingmen of the country, and it has not been received with favor even by the masses of the Democracy.

Parker has nothing in common with the average Democrat. He is a corporation-backed candidate, and his candidacy stands for Wall street and corporate domination of the Democratic national organization.

John Markle is for Parker!

That is enough for the great army of workers who will go to the polls on the 8th day of November next.

The calamity howlers have been given a severe setback by recent developments. A temporary stagnation in business is at an end. There is a marked revival of activity in nearly all lines of trade, and manufacturers are starting up their establishments on full time.

The predictions of the Democratic orators of hard times will not be fulfilled.

Right here in Pennsylvania the most gratifying news comes from the Pennsylvania railroad. In the Altoona shops of this great road on the last payday the sum of $428,500 was paid out in wages, which was an increase of $51,500 over the previous month. The men have since been put on full time in the shops, and many men who had been laid off have been re-employed, and it is expected that next months' pay will exceed $600,000. Improvements contemplated all along the line of the road will be pushed to early completion, and every effort will be made to prepare for the increased traffic which will follow the steady improvement in general business conditions which is now in progress.

Meanwhile John Markle still wears his Parker button.

And the "hoodoo" is still on.

Peculiarity About Insurance.

When insurance companies grant insurance on life, they are particular to have the person examined by a doctor to ascertain if he is in sound health. They are most particular about the analysis of the urine for the diseases of the kidneys are the most fatal and so many people have diseaaed kidneys without knowing it. If there are any symptoms they are usually (even by doctors) attributed to some other cause. Thompson's Barosma is the safest remedy to take for it will do good whether you have kidney trouble or not. Thompson's Barosma gives rest to the nerves. For sale by R. C. Dodson.

Honesty is simply a mixture of honor and good sense.

A Terrible Case of Eczema.

San-Cura Ointment has no equal for Eczema. One year ago my face and neck were one mass of raw sores; the doctor said I had Eczema and Erysipelas. I had not slept for weeks, with itching, burning pain. It was terrible! The first night I used San-Cura Ointment, I slept all night for the first time in weeks, and in a short time was completely cured. Chas. Fay, Townsville, Pa. Druggists, 25c and 50c. For sale by R. C. Dodson.

Love at first sight supplies a lot of work for divorce judges.

A Great Discovery.

Judging from the number of permanent cures that it has made Thompson's Barosma, Kidney and Liver Cure is the greatest discovery in medical science. Thompson's Barosma has made remarkable cures in kidney, liver, bladder, stomach and blood diseases, also palpitation of the heart and nervousness. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. Just the remedy for young and old. Druggists. $1 per bottle. Six for $5. For sale by R. C. Dodson.
